The 13th January 1938.

My dear Yuvaraj Sahib,

I write to Your Highness after a long time, but it is due to the fact that you have been away in foreign countries.

I am sorry we could not come to Bombay to meet you all, but the notice was short and there were several difficulties. However, I value this opportunity of drawing your attention towards the proposal. Last year it was proposed to have the horoscopes tallied, but it could not be done in your absence. Now, if you approve, I may send my Pandit with the Princess' horoscope along with a responsible officer, preferably the Diwan of Charkhari State to talk about the matters. If after that it is found to be necessary to have one more meeting between all of us, we shall be only too glad to come over to some convenient place which may suit you. In any case, the matter should not be left where it is. You know, I, as the mother of the young princess must naturally feel anxious to see the matters proceed further.
